Audacity.

"L'audace, l'audace, toujours l'audace. This French proverb was never better illustrated by any one than by our morning contemporary. Its audaciousness excels anything of which we have ever | jy23 3m been witness in journalism in this city. One day it will denounce every journal and all persons who consi tently support certain political opinions; then it will deny that it ever uttered such and such an idea; and the next day or so after, it will say: "We said so," "the writer" said so; and so it goes on ad infinitum. It evidently thinks that the people are gullible, and that its readers never notice its whirlings. Yesterday, it spared neither type nor space to convince all within its reach that the Hon. J. Robson had indicated, with oracular wisdom, the true Tariff for British Columbia, after its admission into the Dominion. ances of Alexander, after he had been declared the son of Jupiter Ammon, were never more boastful. Even the Ottawa Cabinet had, we are boastfully told, been taken by a coup de main, and with great humility had acknowledged that the only penacea to satisfy all classes in this Colony was the tariff resolution of the Hou Mr. Robson. What however will be the surprise of Canadian statesmen when they find that the Colonist of July 12th declared that British Columbia would have to accept the Canadian tariff and could not have any other, and that those who thought differently were either deceiving the people or themselves? Possibly they will consider themselves denounced for thinking that the Canadian tariff may be des ferred. But if the denunciation of the 12th, be difficult to account for how will they enjoy the virtuous indignation of the Colonist of the 14th when it states that the Hon. J. Robson never entertained any such an idea as deferring the extension of the Canadian tariff to this Colony. When, however, they turn up the Government Gazette and find that he had moved a resolution to effect such an end, that surprise will merge into incredulity as to the correctness of the report in the Government Gazette or their own eyesight will be doubted. If, perchance, the Colonist of July 22d should reach the Privy Council Chamber, in which it is audaciously asserted that Hon. I Robson did more such a resolution, and great credit awarded him for having done so, they will undoubted-ly arrive at the conclusion that such a urnal, given to such changes, would do THE UNDERSIGNED GIVES LESSONS more injury to a political party than Bass and Dancing.

The News.

War was declared on the 15th and we have news to the 21st from London. No battle is reported during the six days that have just pacsed. A few shots have been exchanged by sentinels, nothing more. Earl Granville is credited with stating that the Emperor will not entertain negotiations for peace. All hope of peace is gone. Nothing but a decisive battle can clear the way for negotiations. France and Prusia are both full of enthusiasm. Both are defiant. Foreign opinion says that France is, and that Prussia is not prepared for the war. It has, however, been stated in the German Parlihowever, been stated in the German Parliament that Prus is was never better prepared to enter the field than she is now. Denmark is certain to join France! so will Italy. The Pope recognizing that he has been sacrificed by France for Victor Emmanuel's aid, favors Prussia. What appears most extraordinary is Turkey, poor and penniless, offering 200,000 men to France, if the latter will pay them. The war promises to be a first-class one; but the news of the whereabouts of the opposing armies is concealed. We have it is true, in the telegrams a brief indication of the position of the French a brief indication of the position of the French on the Rhine, and also of the divisions of the army and the names of their commanders. The nearest that we can learn about the bombardment of Prussian seaports, is the arrival of a French fleet in the Baltic. Of the Prussian army movements we learn nothing; their secret is well k-pt. Till a battle shall have taken place, it is not very likely that outsiders will gain much knowledge of the intention of opposing generals.

THE EMPEROR'S WINE .- Among the Winemakers in the Champagne district of France, there is no name in better repute now, we learn, than that of Bouche, Fis & Co., of Mareuil, near Ay. Their Napoleon Cabinet wine, so called from the fact that the Emperor has long preferred it to all others, is supplanting many of the older brands in Europe and United States, and is rapidly coming into general use in British Columbia.

It is the leading wine at Delmonico's and at the recent opening of Fijux's Hotel in Waverly Place, New York, it was decidedly the favorite among the Connoisseurs, journal-ists and others who were present. Many efforts have been made by American Wine-forts have been made by American Wine-Growers, in a spirit of honest competition, to rival "the foaming grape of Eastern France," but with limited success; and doubtles for some time to come, it will be preferred for festal occasions to any American manufacture however good. The House of Grelley & Fiterre, Wharf Street, has the agency of this celebrated wine. celebrated wine.

CITY TAXES .- The case of John Burraghs. summoned before Mr. Pemberton for a school rate, came up for hearing yesterday morning. and was postponed by consent till Monday next. Arthur Bunster appeared in answer to a summons by the Corporation for non-payment of Road Tax for 1869, and defended his own case. Mr. McCreight appeared to prosecute the claim. The case was so far different from those hitherto tried, that in this instance application was made for the direct of a warrant of distress for the smount and costs, which was founded on certain authorities snewing that on the defendant being summoned and the magi-trate being satisfied that a rate was made, that the name of the party complained against was on the list, and that he had not paid, then the magistrate's duty is simply minis-terial, and he must issue his warrant at once against the goods and chattels of the defendant. The magistrate was satisfied with this view of the matter, as put by the counsel for the Corporation, and considered that the objection made by defendant that proceedings should have been taken within six months from the time of default being made, according to 11 and 12 Vict., chap. 13, had no aprate, and not an order for a money payment. Decision was given against Mr. Bunster, and the magistrate intimated that if he did not pay he (the magistrate) would issue his warran of distress; and that as to costs, this being the first case, he would only inflict the ex-

Mr. Dickens's Last Letter.

A letter has been published which was certainly one of the last written by Mr. Dickens -it may have been his very last-for it is dated the day of the fatal seizure, and, under the circumstances, it will be read with a good deal of interest. Somebody, with question-able taste, had called Mr. Dickens's attention Indic taste, had called Mr. Dickens's attention to a passage in the tenth chapter of "Edwin Drood" as likely to wound the feelings of religious people, by the fact of its containing what the writer was pleased to consider a not quite reverent allusion to a passage in the Bible, supposed by many to refer to Our Lord. Mr. Dickens sent the following reply:—
"Gade's Hill Place. Highman by Rochester.

"Gads's Hill Place, Highman by Rochester Kent, Wednesday, the 8th June, 1876. "DEAB SIR,-It would be quite inconceivable to me—but for your letter—that any reasonable reader could possibly attach a Scriptural reference to a passage in a book of mine, reproducing a much abused social figure of speech, impressed into all sorts of service on all sorts of inappropriate occasions, without the faintest connection of it with its original source. I am truly shocked to find that any reader can make the mistake. I have any reader can make the mistake. I have always striven in my writings to express ven-eration for the life and lessons of our Saviour, because I feel it; and because I re-wrote that history for my children—every one of whom knew it from having it repeated to them, long before they could read, and almost as soon as they could speak. But I have never made proclamation of this from the housetops .-Faithfully yours,

"CHARLES DICKENS," Saturday Review.

AN ELECTRIFIED ISLAND.—The little island of St. Pierro Miquelon boasts of two telegraph stations. One of these belongs to an American company, which works in connection with the Anglo-American Company's lines, with the Anglo-American Company's lines, receiving messages from Newfoundland and sending them on to Sydeny. The other station, which is worked by the French Trans-Atlantic Company, is furnished with extremely delicate receiving instruments, which were found to be seriously affected by earth currents. It was found, says Nature, that part of the so-called earth currents had been due to the signals sent by the American Company into their own lines, for the messages sent by the rival company were clearly indicated. The wires were not even in close vicinity. The two stations are several hundred yards The two stations are several hundred yard apart, yet messages sent to one were distinctly read at the other, through the earth. The fact is, the little island was thoroughly electrified, and could no longer keep its secrets. Auction Sales.
